35 Marines Killed Repulsing Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Some 1,200 North Vietnamese hammered at a U.S. Marine camp for three hours today before pulling back and leaving 179 Communist dead strewn over a battle-scarred hillside.

Charging beneath a mortar barrage and behind spewing flamethrowers, the men of the North Vietnamese 324B Division smashed into a perimeter defended by U.S. Marines, small detachments of U.S. Navy Seabees, Army Special Forces men and South Vietnamese militiamen.

Unofficial reports from the battlefield said 35 Marines were killed and 89 wounded. The South Vietnamese lost 14 dead and 16 wounded while the Special Forces and the Seabees each had five wounded.

The attack on the new camp near Con Thien, two miles below the demilitarized zone, began with a 200-round mortar barrage at 3 a.m. Coordinated with it were mortar attacks on three other Marine positions below the border zone which wounded at least eight Marines.

Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of the 75,000 Marines in Vietnam, had a narrow escape at Con Thien. An enemy 60mm mortar round exploded 15 feet from him as he was inspecting the field after the battle. Walt was not hurt, but his operations officer, Col. James Barrett, got a jaw injury from a shell fragment, and Walt's aide, Capt. Bill Lee of Arcadia, Calif., suffered a concussion.

The attacking North Vietnamese charged under cover of their mortars and flamethrowers to lay bamboo poles filled with dynamite across the camp's barbed-wire defenses and blow open attack paths.

Smashing through these breaches, the Reds got inside the perimeter at two points, hurling grenades and satchel charges.

The hill at first was held by a company of about 200 Marines, with a small U. S. Navy Seabee detachment, a team of U. S. Special Forces soldiers and a force of South Vietnamese militiamen. As the fight continued, Marine reinforcements charged up. Associated Press correspondent Robert Ohman reported the hill was a scene of carnage and destruction. Three tanks were damaged, two halftracks and two trucks burned out and three mounted 40mm cannon torn up by rocket fire.

The attackers failed to reach more than 20 bulldozers the Seabees are using to clear a seven-mile trip below the demilitarized zone as a barrier to North Vietnamese infiltration.

Leonard Van Dyke charged that the mayor is "an ostrich, Alice in Wonderland or a man with a very poor memory" if he is not aware of what's going on Downtown.

The mayor was quoted by Van Dyke as saying, "I don't feel it's my responsibility and I'm not going to take the blame."

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (DHUD), in a letter May 3, called the conduct of relocation activities in the Downtown Urban Renewal area to be unsatisfactory in many respects.

The federal agency cut off all funds for Uptown Urban Renewal until the Downtown problems are adjusted.

Relocation is perhaps the major problem Downtown. It is charged that due to poor planning, persons are being moved from one sub-standard building to another.

Van Dyke claims that efforts to meet with Urban Renewal officials and the mayor in the past concerning the relocation problem have been fruitless.

"What surprises me," Van Dyke said, "Are the mayor's statements that he wasn't aware of the problem. In June of 1966, a committee including my wife and I were called intruders when we wanted to meet with Urban Renewal Agency and the Kingston Housing Authority. On another occasion my wife and I and members of the Congress for Racial Equality, (CORE), met with the mayor to discuss the problems arising out of displacement of people in the Sixth Ward and the mayor promised to look into it."

"Of course he never did," Van Dyke charged.

DHUD has recommended a series of open meetings with city, housing authority and urban renewal agency members and site members to allow them to bring their views to the attention of authorities with program responsibilities.

DHUD recommended some of the following steps to correct discrepancies they found in the Kingston urban renewal program.

They called for a survey of all buildings in the project including vacant structures to determine which ones can be repaired for on-site relocation.

Also acquisition of all remaining properties as quickly as possible so as to have effective control of occupancy and property management.

Termination of all demolition in the project area without consent from the federal government pending the completion of the above survey.

The federal agency also called for the complete cleanup of all debris in the Downtown Urban Renewal area. The agency claims that the leaving of debris for months is in violation of the demolition contract.

DHUD's letter of May 3 stated in summation, "Please advise us on the specific steps taken to implement the recommendations in this letter and any additional steps you intend to take within 10 days of the date of this letter.

Mayor Garraghan was in conference all morning with Frank A. Reis, chairman of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and Eric Hemphill, its executive director.

Van Dyke also warned of rising taxes. He said: "Urban Renewal is Kingston's number one problem. If the Mayor can honestly claim ignorance then he is equally ignorant of the fact that hundreds of thousands of dollars of Kingston property is presently off the tax rolls and Kingston residents had better get on the ball before their own taxes skyrocket to take up the slack."

A former Sixth Ward alderman today strongly criticized Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's reported statement that he (the mayor) was not aware of the problems in the Downtown Urban Renewal project.

Propose Lifting Tax Ceiling

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican leader of the State Constitutional Convention today proposed sweeping changes in the state charter's limitations on the amount of money cities, towns and school districts may borrow or raise through real estate taxes.

Gordon A. Howe of Rochester, assistant minority leader, advanced his ideas in a series of propositions presented at the convention reconvened after a three week recess.

Howe, citing the need for changes in the constitution's provisions for local taxation and borrowing to meet contemporary problems, offered proposals that would:

— Repeal the limits on the amount that local governments may raise by real estate taxes for local purposes.

— Delete the section placing a ceiling on borrowing for counties, cities, villages, towns and school districts. This proposition would eliminate specific debt limitations from the constitution.

— Direct the Legislature to grant fiscal independence to all the school districts within the state.

While GOP sources said that Howe's proposals did not represent a party position, it is possible that Republicans may officially endorse them in the weeks to come.

The proposals embody ideas that have been advanced in the Legislature for many years without any change in the constitution.

Explaining what he termed the need for change in the taxing limit, Howe said that the limits were "incompatible with the principle of self determination of local governments."

As for the limits on the amount of indebtedness communities may incur, Howe said that they were "obsolete and inappropriate and were based on real estate values, failing to reflect new sources of revenue."

In calling for fiscal independence for school districts, he said that most states do not impose property tax limits, as applied to school support.

"School districts should have the power," Howe said, "to determine their own budgets separate and distinct from that of city legislative bodies."

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — The pilot and four executives of the S.J. Groves Construction Co. of North Syracuse were killed today when their plane crashed into the backyard of a home in a hilly, wooded area about 12 miles north of here, deputy sheriffs said.

The dead were identified as: Arnold Wierorek, about 30, of North Syracuse, pilot - employee of the construction company.

Gust A. Peterson, in his mid-30s, vice president and New York State manager of company operations.

Arnold Oman, late 30s, New York State area equipment superintendent for the company in Constantia, near Syracuse.

Don Wier, early 40s, of North Syracuse, company job manager for projects in the Rochester area.

Thomas Burns, mid - 30s, of North Creek, engineer on the company project on the Adirondack Northway.

The dead were identified by Jack Kohnke and John Hiesland, engineers for the company. Deputies said the two had been scheduled to fly to Binghamton in the plane from North Syracuse but decided to drive instead.

Hold Trucker In Fatal Crash

By Walter S. Clark Jr.

Continued investigation of the double-fatality which occurred early Saturday on Albany Avenue Extension, Town of Ulster, resulted in the arrest of William Quick, 24, of 171 Henry Street, and Stone Ridge, on a charge of first degree grand larceny.

Quick was the operator of a tractor involved in the collision with a car which claimed the lives of the two occupants of the sedan, Maurice Odell, 35, of Lucas Avenue, Kingston, and Mrs. Mary Jean Conti, 32, of Forest Glen Park, Town of Ulster.

Odell and the woman were both instantly killed. Trooper Thomas Crowley of the Kingston substation said it had not been determined whether Odell or Mrs. Conti was driving the car when it pulled out of the Evergreen Inn parking lot and was in collision with the north-bound tractor.

According to troopers, Quick allegedly took the tractor without permission of the owners, Colonial Sand and Gravel Co., of New York City. Odell was cited for operating a vehicle without a license and driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Quick was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly, Town of Ulster, on the motor vehicle violations. Hearing was adjourned until Wednesday, May 10.

BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann, who took part in the investigation Saturday and filed the charges later, arraigned Quick before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, on the grand larceny charge. Quick pleaded innocent and waived preliminary examination. The case was referred to the grand jury for investigation.

According to state police, Quick was traveling north in the tractor at about 3:20 a. m. Saturday, reportedly testing the vehicles on which he had been making repairs. The sedan headed out of the parking lot onto Albany Avenue Extension and the tractor and car apparently hooked together.

The two vehicles continued north for a distance of 261 feet before both crashed through the front and side of the Family Cleaners and Tailors (Poly Clean Center) at 783 Albany Avenue Extension.

Occupants of the house adjoining the cleaners establishment were awakened by the terrific crash, hurriedly dressed and left their homes after notifying the state police. The house is occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Sanborn, operator of the cleaners store, her sons, Mark, 20, and Jerry, 14, and Mrs. Wilda Druce, 86. No one in the house was injured.

Quick was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for minor injuries, it was reported.

The badly damaged tractor and wrecked sedan were wedged under part of the frame-concrete block building for hours, until workmen dropped up the structure to prevent it from collapsing.

The deaths of Odell and Mrs. Conti increased the county highway death toll for 1967 to 13. The 14th death was recorded on Saturday after Mark Edward Brought, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brought of Grove Street, Tillson, died at Kingston Hospital of injuries suffered in a bicycle-car accident on Thursday.

Permanent personal registration will be new in Kingston, and voters there are asked to take advantage of the time they have before next fall and register at the county building during any week Mondays through Fridays until Sept. 5.

October registration in previous years was held on the first two Fridays and Saturdays of the month in Kingston and on the first two Saturdays in the county. Registration next October from Oct. 6 to 14 will exclude Sundays.

Gilboa GI Killed in Viet

GILBOA, N.Y. (AP)—Donald J. Sheehy, 21, of Gilboa, who was promoted to Army sergeant only a few weeks ago, has been killed in combat in South Vietnam.

A family spokesman said Sunday they had learned he was killed last Friday while serving with the 1st Air Cavalry Division. Sheehy, who was born in Albany, leaves a widow, Janet, and a son, Sean, in this western Catskill community.

Meanwhile, Army Spec. 4, Gerald Farrell, 25, of Watertown, also was killed Friday in Vietnam while fighting in the Mekong Delta.

His mother, Mrs. Leon Farrell, said Saturday she had been told Farrell, who entered the service about a year ago, was killed by small - arms fire. He also is survived by his widow, Ruth.

Collect $11,741 For Local GI's

Ulster County residents turned out in full force on Saturday and Sunday to put the 30-hour radiothon in support of a drive for cash and gifts for county servicemen in Vietnam over the top.

The weekend program directed by Edward Englehardt of Ulster Hose Co. 5 and Jim Tyrrell and the staff of station WKNY was most successful. Englehardt told The Freeman today that cash donations amounted to $10,180 and pledges numbering $1,561, boosted the total to $11,741.

More checks and cash contributions are expected. The official weight of the gifts donated by county residents and businesses was 7,564 pounds, with additional gifts promised by many persons and organizations.

Englehardt said that the cash donations were turned over to William R. Stall, vice president of Kingston Savings and Loan, who deposited them Saturday night and yesterday.

The total gift weight does not include articles left at the 20 or more collection stations in the city and county communities.

A total of 160 names of Ulster County men and women now serving in Vietnam has been compiled and each will be the recipient of gift packages and a subscription of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Englehardt said.

"The united effort of the various organizations, WKNY, The Freeman and individuals in the county who participated and the type of patriotic and community spirit displayed throughout the 30-hour radiothon, is almost unbelievable," Englehardt said.

The Ulster Hose Vietnam Committee chairman reports that donations made on Saturday and Sunday were enough to make up 1,600 five-pound gift packages for the county men in Vietnam. Part of the cash donations will be used to purchase cartons of cigarettes at one dollar per carton for the servicemen.

Photographs taken during the radiothon will be included in

Man Drowned In Orange Lake While Fishing

James Yeomans, 53, of 16 Bruce Street, Newburgh, was found drowned in six feet of water at 5:30 p. m. Sunday, after his boat was seen capsized in Orange Lake off O'Dell Lane in Newburgh.

Yeomans, who fished every Sunday in the lake, usually returned home about 12:30 p. m. and Mrs. Yeomans became concerned when he failed to do so.

At about 5:30 p. m. Mrs. Yeomans called the Newburgh Fire Department after finding her husband's empty car parked by the lake. The Fire Department eventually found the overturned boat and the body.

Coroner Harvey Agnew arrived at the scene and pronounced Yeomans dead and, after an investigation, determined that his death was accidental, due to drowning.

Yeomans was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for minor injuries, it was reported.

The badly damaged tractor and wrecked sedan were wedged under part of the frame-concrete block building for hours, until workmen dropped up the structure to prevent it from collapsing.

Suffers Intestinal Ailment

Ike Hospitalized Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 76 — a rather frequent but notably snap-back type of hospital patient — is said to be resting comfortably with what appears to be a gastrointestinal ailment.

The five-star general, hospitalized for five other major illnesses including two heart attacks and two major surgical operations since 1955, entered Walter Reed Army Hospital about midnight Saturday after an ambulance ride from his home in Gettysburg, Pa.

The provisional diagnosis is acute gastroenteritis, an acute inflammation of the lining of the stomach and the small intestine.

All evidence presently available from the hospital indicates doctors there do not look upon the case as a serious, life-threatening one, at least at present.

A hospital spokesman said no further medical bulletins were planned until late this morning.

Eisenhower's admission followed what a hospital spokesman called "an episode of nausea and vomiting, with abdominal cramps" suffered late Saturday evening at his farm home.

Eisenhower and his wife Mamie had returned to the farm last Thursday from Palm Desert, Calif., where they have been spending their winters.

The spokesman said the progress of Eisenhower's discomfort at home "was such that, after consultation with doctors at Walter Reed General Hospital, it was decided to proceed to the hospital for medical observation."

"The provisional diagnosis is acute gastroenteritis," said the spokesman in giving out the news shortly after noon Sunday.

"Therapeutic measures are being carried out," he added.

No details were given immediately on the treatment being employed.

Eisenhower was in Walter Reed last December for gall bladder surgery.

Even before he underwent the surgery he was talking about playing golf as soon as possible.

He said recently that while in Palm Desert this year, he managed up to about 12 holes, although he had not yet tried a full 18.

Some private doctors not associated with Eisenhower's case suggested he might now be the victim of something familiar to thousands of Americans year after year — intestinal flu caused by a still- unidentified virus.

"There's a lot of it going around," one doctor told a reporter.

Churches Will Support Negroes In Kodak Fight

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Episcopal Diocese of Rochester plans to continue its financial support of a militant Negro civil rights group engaged here in a battle with Eastman Kodak Co. over hiring practices.

Delegates to the diocese's annual convention here voted Saturday, 141-49, to approve a motion that called for individual mission and parish support of FIGHT on a voluntary basis.

An earlier proposal to include a $5,000 donation in the diocesan program budget was defeated.

FIGHT and Kodak have been locked in controversy over the photographic firm's rejection of an agreement to train and hire 600 unskilled Negroes recruited by FIGHT. The company claimed the agreement was unauthorized. FIGHT has since asked that Kodak hire 2,000 Negroes.

The delegates also approved of a $5,000 grant to FIGHT from a fund of the national Episcopal Church known as the United Thank Offering.

The diocese was among several church groups that contributed to a $100,000 fund to bring the Chicago-based Industrial Areas Foundation here to organize Negroes under the FIGHT banner. The foundation is headed by Saul D. Alinsky.

Ask Separation Of U. S. State On Hudson River

NORTH CREEK, N.Y. (AP)—The executive director of the State Hudson River Valley Commission opposes inclusion of the upper Hudson River in the federal "wild rivers" preservation program.

Alexander Aldrich, calling for the state to retain control over the river's headwaters, said "people who live on this river have the resources and desire to conserve and use this river in the best possible way."

Aldrich spoke Saturday at a ceremony marking the end of the first day of the 10th annual White Waters Derby canoe races here.

Aldrich urged that the federal government be a "partner" rather than the leader in any program aimed at controlling the pollution or use of the river.

U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, both in the area to try the turbulent waters of the upper Hudson, also spoke but did not refer directly to federal proposals to safeguard the river.

"We have polluted and ruined our rivers and then turned our backs on them," Udall said.

"We must be sure that our great-grandchildren can do the same in a hundred years as we did here today, go out and enjoy the Hudson River and the white water."

Kennedy, New York's Democratic senator, who praised Aldrich's work in preserving the state's natural resources, said it "would be a crime against the next generations to lose or spoil our rivers."

N. Y. Auto Club; Mayor to Honor 3 School Guards

Three members of the School Safety Patrols in Kingston, each of whom has served the cause of school safety with exceptional distinction, will receive Distinguished Service Medals from Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan at City Hall today at 1 p. m. The medals are awarded by the Automobile Club of New York, which sponsors the activities of the patrols in Ulster County.

Participating in the ceremony was Paul C. Petrillo, assistant director of services at the Auto Club. The ceremony is part of a state-wide observance of School Safety Patrol Week, which has been proclaimed from May 7 to 13 by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The medal winners are: Ian Mark Horowitz, Sherry Lane, George Washington School; Patricia Mangiagli, 24 Lindside Avenue, Immaculate Conception School and Rinaldo Esposito, 462 Broadway, St. Mary's School.

They were chosen by their schools to receive the medals in recognition of their "exceptional alertness and attention to duty" in safeguarding schoolmates at school crossings.

The first patrols in the metropolitan area were organized by the Auto Club in 1926. In their 41 years, they have helped reduce traffic fatalities to school-age children in the state by 70 per cent, despite a 175 per cent increase in motor vehicle registration.

Speaker Named For Rehab Parley

Approximately 300 physicians, social workers, nurses and therapists from rehabilitation centers and rehabilitation hospitals throughout New York State are expected to attend the two day conference.

Blaze Routs 13

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A fire caused by what firemen said may have been defective wiring destroyed a three-story brick apartment house Sunday night, rendering 13 persons homeless.

No one was reported injured. There was no damage estimate.

Officials said the fire apparently began in a second-floor front room.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Is there any reason why a potato should have holes punched in it or be scored before baking?

I have been baking them for years without doing this. . . . Curious

I sure am glad you haven't had one explode! They do sometimes, you know.

Potatoes are over 75% water. When the skin is not punctured someplace on the potato, the steam builds up inside during the baking. This sometimes causes the potatoes to explode.

Punch a hole or two in each potato. Otherwise, you might open your oven door some day just as one decides to expand and explode!

Play it safe and don't take a chance.

Dear Heloise:

If we are interested in getting seedlings going early, we drop the seeds in a pan of lukewarm water for a few hours (or overnight) before planting them. This soaking softens the hard exterior shells and allows them to sprout faster.

After you do this, plant the seeds in dirt-filled paper picnic cups and put in boxes for easy carrying.

The cups can be kept in a warm place until the weather permits planting. Then just slash each cup down the side, lift out the plants and set along in the rows or hills, with the dirt still attached to the roots.

Dear Heloise:

Luckily countless readers do NOT have to pay taxes on all the time they "earn" from many helpful hints used!

Dear Heloise:

As a professional manicurist, may I suggest that housewives buy the longer emery boards. They will find they can get a prettier shape to their fingernails.

Hold it lightly on one end and do the filing from the center to the opposite end. This always makes a beautiful taper.

Pro-Heloise Fan

Dear Heloise:

I went out and bought some. They absolutely work better. Instead of my nails being pointed where they break, the long emery board made them curved, rounded and tapered just like she said.

I believe we are not wasting money by buying the longer ones because there is more emery on them! All one has to do is turn it around and use the other end.

So why don't you try it? I did and I love it.

Dear Heloise:

Being a carpenter, here's a hint I use for a neater job when caulking between wood and finished brick. I use masking tape on the brick for the desired caulking bead and it keeps the bricks clean.

I caulk, finish off with my finger and then strip off the tape . . . slick as a whistle.

Thank you, sir, for your terrific hint.

Dear Heloise:

I have found another use for our terry cloth coasters.

Whenever I use a bottle of chop suey sauce, steak sauce, or any bottle that is apt to be drippy, I always slip one of the terry cloth coasters on the bottom. (If the bottle is small, I use a rubber band to keep one coaster snug at the top.)

Sure prevents spots on my tablecloths. I just throw the coasters in with my laundry when "need be."

Dear Heloise:

The iron-on patches on my grandson's pants began to come loose at the edges.

I ripped a portion of the outside seams of the legs and zig-zag stitched around the patches.

It is not only decorative but wears and wears.

Plane Found Safe

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — A small, private airplane, object of a widespread search Sunday night near this Steuben County town when it was feared forced down, landed safely in Cleveland, Ohio, officials say.

The federal Aviation Agency at Bradford, Pa., where the single-engine, Cessna 182 was scheduled to have landed, reported the craft set down without incident at Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

The search by sheriff's deputies and civilians was begun after Hornell-area residents reported seeing a flash of light and puffs of smoke south of the city. One man said he also heard a distress call over a television set.

Guild Names Paltz Trooper Winner of Page One Honors

A 28-year-old state trooper who figured in a bullet-punctuated chase in pursuit of two wanted armed fugitives after he was shot by one of the pair near Ellenville last fall, has been named winner of the 1967 Page One Award for Bravery, the Kingston Newspaper Guild made known today.

He is Stanley Kowalik, presently assigned to the Highland State Police detail. He resides at 86 Schreiber Lane, New Paltz, with his wife Hazel and their three children Nancy, Chris and Scott.

The award is one of three already decided upon by a KNG committee, that will be presented as a feature of the 12th annual Page One Ball to be conducted by KNG at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Saturday night May 20.

Others named for awards are Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., of Kingston, a prominent area golfer and executive for the past 30 years, and George Herbert DeKay, of 272 Manor Avenue, and outstanding leader in civic affairs. Dr. Holcomb was named winner of the Page One Sports Award and DeKay will be presented with the Page One Civic Award for 1967.

It will be the second award for Kowalik. He was named the second winner of the New York Daily News Distinguished Award earlier this year. The latter award has been established to "focus public attention on the outstanding job performed by the New York State Police and to recognize in some measure the individual achievement of troopers in the line of duty."

Fugitive Shoots Trooper

Trooper Kowalik was on night patrol last October when he spotted two suspicious acting men in a red station wagon near a Napanoch service station. He approached the vehicle and was questioning the men when the trooper was fired upon three times. A bullet hit Kowalik's left upper arm. The station wagon sped away.

Bleeding from the bullet wound, the trooper leaped into the police car and gave chase. He radioed headquarters at Ellenville reporting the incident and giving his route of pursuit. Shots were exchanged and the chase continued until the fugitives vehicle went out of control on a hairpin curve—at a speed of 100 miles an hour—and crashed into a guard rail.

The fugitives escaped into the woods, firing shots as they fled. Roadblocks were set up and one of the largest man-hunts in the history of Ulster County was immediately launched. The fugitive subsequently was captured. They were later indicted as Wesley Allen Brown, 31, of New London, Conn., and Ray Edison Davis, 25, of Houston, Texas. Trooper Kowalik has been a member of the New York State Police the last five years. He served four years in the U. S. Navy.

Agrees With Selection

Supt. Arthur Cornelius Jr., of the New York State Police, has arranged Kowalik's work schedule in order that he may attend the ball with Mrs. Kowalik. "It is most gratifying that the Kingston Newspaper Guild plans to honor a member of the Division and I certainly concur in the selection the committee has made."

The Page One Awards Committee—Sherwood Lasher, Robert Sachloff, Henry P. Eighmey and Mark Cornwell selected Kowalik for the Award for Bravery, the first in that category to be awarded by KNG.

Other features of the Page One Ball will be the crowning of the 1967 Page One Queen, dinner and dancing, distribution of the souvenir program, music and other entertainment.

The Queen will be announced at the ball. Three finalists were selected by judges at a reception held April 30 at The Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, Saugerties. There were 20 contestants. The finalists are: Miss Louise Weber, daughter of Harold and Margaret Weber, Olivebridge; Elaine Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert F. Stokes, 540 Albany Avenue and Janis Johnson, daughter of Byron and Helen Johnson, West Hurley.

Tickets for the ball may be obtained from any member of KNG and the committee headed by Charles J. Tiano suggests early reservations.

GOLD: THE STABILIZER
Gold as a stabilizer of world currencies has no adequate substitute. Evidence of this is to be found throughout the world.

In 1961, the central banks of Belgium, France, Italy, Netherlands, Switzerland, West Germany, the United Kingdom and the United States formed a huge gold pool.

Its basic purpose was to prevent wide price swings in gold which could lead to a loss of confidence in many foreign currencies.

Seven years ago, in London, the demand for gold started a wild wave of speculation in the rare metal. In October 1960, gold hit $40.50 an ounce—up from about $35 an ounce. The Bank of England acts as the agent for the pool. When gold demand is strong, the Bank sells gold. When demand abates, it buys the metal.

Those who think that gold as a currency base is out of date should carefully consider this eight-country pool.

In the world, the United States has the most gold. It totals about $13,200,000,000. France comes second with around $5,225,000,000.

Prominent officials in the Republic of France persistently suggest that the price of gold be increased. This is one important reason why this column frequently discusses the gold situation.

America's adverse balance of payments, which have drained off billions of our gold, is a threat to the present $35 an ounce gold price.

Gold hoarding goes on apace. In 1966, the Free World produced about $1,500,000,000 of gold. Speculation in the metal, the hoarding of it and its uses for industrial purposes left little if any gold that could go into the monetary stocks.

That is very significant. The gold pool is of vital importance to such currencies as the pound sterling, the Swiss and French franc, the German reichsmark and the Italian lira.

Will France eventually force the $35 an ounce price of gold upward? It could be.

If that were to happen, millions of American investors would plunge into speculation in the gold stocks.

The best gold stocks in the Western Hemisphere are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. They pay dividends. At going prices, risk is small.

But the interesting thing about them centers about the future price of gold. If it were increased, gold equity prices would boom.

To many inquirers: America's leading gold producer is Homestake Mining; in Canada, it is Dome Mines.

List Changes in Tax Office Days for City

Revised days and hours for assistance to taxpayers who need Federal tax assistance have been announced by District Director Donald T. Hartley of the Albany Internal Revenue Service, which services the northeastern New York State including the Kingston area.

The Kingston offices at 59 North Front Street will be open Tuesdays from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Director Hartley offered the following suggestions to make filing next years return easier: 1. Keep good records—If you don't pay by check, always get a paid bill or a receipt as a record of your payment. 2. Keep all your tax records including cancelled checks, paid bills, interest and dividend statements etc. in the same place so that they can be easily located during tax filing time.

Tax records must be retained until the expiration of the statute of limitation. Ordinarily, this is three years from the date the return was due or filed, whichever is later.

Business Mirror Reflections

Johnson Refusing To Give Up Surtax

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Johnson administration has reaffirmed its intention of seeking a 6 per cent surtax on income taxes sometime later this year despite broad opposition from business, economists, workers.

This insistence on the surtax has been a real puzzle for months now. It is also a powerful tool, either as a threat or an actuality. But what is it for?

Is it to pay for a hoped-for increase in Social Security benefits? To reduce the threat of inflation? To demonstrate fiscal responsibility? To pay for a possible further escalation of the war in Vietnam?

A great many people feel the surtax proposal is uncalled for on strictly economic grounds. John Connor, Johnsons former commerce secretary, was among the latest to urge the President to withdraw his proposal. But nothing has dissuaded Johnson.

Gives Reasons

Last week he told a news conference that "at the appropriate time, we hope that the situation will be compelling and persuasive even to those who have their doubts now." The tax would provide needed revenue, he said.

The original interpretation seemed to be political.

The theory was that since Johnson wanted a big increase in Social Security benefits he had to demonstrate a method of payment or see his proposal trimmed. A surtax would fulfill the requirement.

The inflation theory, meanwhile, has developed.

Gardner Ackley, chief economic advisor, has chosen the current economic pause to warn of rising prices. Because of the possible threat, he said, wage-price guidelines might be reactivated.

This argument, although well reasoned, seem to come out of a blue sky. Rampant inflation is only a threat. There is no certainty that the economy will turn upward or that we'll have inflation needing a tax dampener.

In fact, the administration and the Federal Reserve Board have actually been doing the opposite of dampening; they have been stimulating the civilian economy.

It is perhaps too easy to say that the rising costs of Vietnam are behind this fear. Nevertheless, it is becoming clear that the war is going to cost more than the $21.9 billion estimated in the 1968 budget. Vietnam is inflationary.

See Buildup in Viet

In addition, published reports that have not been specifically denied force a buildup from the present 440,000 troops to 600,000 in 1968.

Such a costly buildup was not anticipated in the budget. There is little room for error.

In reply to questions at a news conference, Johnson said, "I do not consider anything immediately imminent; in the next few days or even the next few weeks." But what about the next six months?

If such a buildup does become part of our military strategy it could coincide with an expansion of the civilian economy, an expansion that the administration has been promoting and which is widely forecast. It would come also at a time when unions will be pushing for big wage increases.

Such ingredients as an expanding economy and big wage increases probably could be accommodated without inflation. But, add the costs of an escalated war and it becomes a volatile mixture that could explode into inflation.

der 60 and physically disabled. A $1,400,000 building program recently completed at the home included, removal of the original structure built in 1892, the construction of a 40-room addition with a new dormitory, laundry, kitchen, dining room and solariums and the modernization of a 1917 three story building. Various fireman's associations, departments and individuals have financially contributed to the furnishing of the rooms, with many of them signed as memorial gifts. William Atkiss of Elst Greenbush, junior past president of the state association and chairman of the program said, more than 5,000 volunteer firemen along with their families are expected to visit for the dedication. He said following the brief ceremonies on the front lawn of the home, the facilities will be open for inspection.

Tablets of Stone

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Theodore Ross, of Temple Sinai in Queens, recently led an expedition to the top of Mount Sinai in the Holy Land. There, he had two slabs of granite carved out of the famed biblical mountain, where Moses received the 10 Commandments. Shipped back to the temple here, the slabs have been inscribed with those universal moral laws.

Chorus of Howls Over Commercials

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A million thanks for printing Nauseated's letter complaining about some of the TV commercials which advertising agencies shove down the viewers' throats. It's high time somebody voiced a complaint.

As a woman of Swedish extraction, I find one coffee commercial extremely hard to take. A young married couple is shown at breakfast. The man takes a sip of coffee after which he registers obvious displeasure. Then the young wife runs tearfully to her neighbor, "Mrs. Olson," a motherly-type. The inexperienced wife begs Mrs. Olson for her "secret" in making good coffee, whereupon Mrs. Olson, in the worst possible Swedish accent reveals that she buys the coffee that is "mountain grown." Heaven preserve us!

ALSO NAUSEATED

DEAR ABBY: I am glad you mentioned how offensive some TV commercials are. My pet peeve happens to be a candy commercial. It shows a man eating a candy bar while he tells how delicious it is. He keeps talking about the candy while he stuffs his face with more and more of it. It is positively revolting!

I have tried to teach my children not to talk with their mouths full, and then they see a grown man doing exactly what I have told them they must never do.

Please tell the candy people that I am one mother who will not buy their candy as long as they put such commercials on TV.

SOUTH BEND MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet the people who spend fortunes on TV advertising would be sick if they knew how few people are actually sold by it. In the first place, you get all the products mixed up. They make the same claims. For instance, I couldn't tell you to save my life which cigarette tastes good like a cigarette should, or which one is longer, or has the real tobacco flavor, is milder, cooler, has the filter tip, or which is the world's largest selling cigarette. After seeing people who would rather fight than switch—and others who happily ate their hats, no one knows which programs are brought to us by which cigarette company, re-read. I don't go for this "now you see it, now you don't."

I have more confidence in advertising I can read and re-read. I don't go for this "now you see it, now you don't." stuff you get on television.

NO SUCKER IN FARGO

DEAR ABBY: A male's way of retaliating to TV advertisers who treat their viewers as morons is as follows: In all fairness I carefully observe all commercials—once. If the message abuses my sensitivity or mature understanding, I carefully note the product being advertised, and in this way I decide which product not to buy.

My theory: Why should I reward insult?

PEEJAY

DEAR ABBY: About TV commercials: I hate to tune in on a program and be subjected to a commercial which brings a bunch of screaming kids into my living room. I have a houseful of my own, and I certainly don't need any more. No one will ever sell me a headache remedy by giving me a headache!

ANTI-NOISE

DEAR ABBY: Re: TV commercials: Most of them are offensive in that they insult the intelligence of anyone more than 10 years old. But some are delightful! I show my appreciation for the good ones by buying the product.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The South Korean government today ordered elections held June 8 for the 175 seats in the country's single-house legislature. Candidates must register by May 15, and more than 500 are expected to run.

President Chung Hee Park's Democratic Republican party now holds 112 seats while the New Democratic party controls 58. Since Park won re-election to the presidency by a landslide last week, his party expects to retain control of the legislature.

BERRY'S WORLD

Yanks Capture Old Viet Fort; They're Not 1st

By JOHN NANCE

LONG HUU, Vietnam (AP) Helicopters streaked in. American infantrymen leaped out, and voila!

Right there in the middle of the rice paddies was a genuine fort of pre-World War I vintage, with a moat, massive cannon mounted in towers, and revolving steel pillboxes gleaming in the sun.

The gun slits atop the old bastion gave a view all around: fields and canals to the rear, the Mekong River delta to the right, and in front the main river channel from the South China Sea to Saigon, 25 miles north.

Built in 1910

Since 1910 the fort had seen a lot of troops come and go—the French who constructed it to protect their Asian interests in the worrisome days before World War I; the Japanese who occupied it in World War II; the British who took over from the French; and then the anti-French Vietnamese government troops of Ngo Dinh Diem; and lately the Viet Cong.

Now the Americans. The fort had stood up well, but this was the supreme test. First, U.S. Air Force planes plastered it with bombs and napalm. That didn't hurt much.

Then the troops arrived. They were from the 2nd Battalion, 3rd Infantry Regiment of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade. The 3rd Infantry Regiment, known as the "Old Guard" has a history dating to the Revolutionary War.

Soon tape recorders blared swinging music over the ramparts. Cooks installed a gleaming refrigerator in a dungeon-like room, turned on a portable generator, and stocked up on steaks and beer.

A sign went up renaming the place Ft. Myers, Southeast Asia.

for the Old Guard's former base in Virginia.

The door had another sign scrawled in Vietnamese: "As of Sept. 9, 1962—stranger, do not enter this door! It is dangerous!"

Gas in Fort

And the sign meant it. The Americans soon found out. A typical assault came a few days after Alpha Company of the battalion had settled in. Its mascot goat was lapping up cornflakes in the shade of one of the pillboxes. He finished the flakes and was starting on the pasteboard carton when the unmistakable fumes of tear gas crept over the fort.

"Here we go again," said Sgt. Dennis Bogue of Elfers, Fla. "It happens every day. Somebody starts foolin' around in those old rooms down below and the damned gas gets stirred up. It goes all over the place."

GOP Distaffers Appeal Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Park Hotel ballroom when they interfered with the voting. When it was all over, attractive, blonde Mrs. Schiaffly acted like a victor in a defeat. She went from the convention floor to a private party with about 1,000 of her cheering supporters, ready to form and head a rival — and outspokenly conservative — organization if they wanted her to.

In fact, a Schiaffly backer from Illinois, Ruth Bateman, said a charter already had been obtained for an "American Federation of Republican Women."

The usually staid and untrodden national federation — an organization of 500,000 Republican women — was rocked by the whole experience.

Mrs. Schiaffly scheduled a news conference today to discuss the protest she is filing with the Federal Election Commission and the irregularity of the election procedure at the two-day convention which ended Saturday.

Mrs. O'Donnell, 63, a Long Beach, Calif., businesswoman, pilot and veteran in GOP politics, won by a vote of 1,910 to 1,494 for Mrs. Schiaffly, 42-year-old mother of six who wrote the 1964 campaign book "A Choice Not an Echo."

Mrs. Schiaffly's supporters claimed the election was stolen by unfair election and parliamentary procedures.

Mrs. Schiaffly wouldn't go quite so far. But she maintained "there's a cloud over the election," mainly because her best security men could not watch the voting machines set and sealed before the voting.

She said the procedure for credentialing delegates made it possible to "bring people in off the street and vote them."

The convention ended in an uproar. Spectators had to be cleared from the huge Sheraton

Cuban Expo '67 Display Features Castro Pitchmen

MONTREAL (AP) — Cuba has six shops at Expo 67 selling cigars, records, handicraft and souvenirs, but the Cuban Pavilion is trying to sell Fidel Castro and his revolution.

Some Canadians are annoyed at the political use being made of the Cuban exhibit. Bruce Taylor, columnist for the Montreal Star, calls it "an exercise in raw propaganda."

Others have been critical of the United States for trying to keep U.S. citizens from buying at the Cuban shops. U.S. laws forbid importation of Cuban goods.

Many visitors appear to be more interested in the crime-faceted security men swarming through the pavilion and in the possibility that anti-Castro troops might blow up the place.

A staff of hostesses is available to escort visitors. There isn't much to explain, however, since the exhibit consists primarily of blowups of pictures and posters tracing the history of the Cuban revolution.

Resnick Hits Bar On Elwyn

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today told the Ulster County Bar Association that he has run out of patience in waiting for replies to charges against the association and county officials arising from legal "improprieties" in the Launi adoption case.

Resnick criticized the Bar Association as being "quick on the trigger" in covering up for its members, but "disgracefully slow on the draw" in protecting the public interest.

The charge was made in a recent letter to Bernard A. Feeney, Jr., President of the Ulster County Bar Association, in which Congressman Resnick accused the Association of breaking repeated promises to "study" earlier charges made against County Attorney Abram Molyneux and Assistant County Attorney Richard Griggs.

Resnick requested that Molyneux and Griggs, "be disbarred or censured by the Ulster County Bar Association for failing to meet their responsibilities as public officers."

The Congressman points out that it is now five months after the original charges have been made and that, "I am still waiting for the Bar Association to give me and the people of Ulster County an answer."

Resnick stresses the fact that when he first criticized Molyneux and Griggs, "the Bar Association, in a matter of days, adopted a resolution condemning me."

The Ellenville Democrat went on further to ask when the Association plans to act against Judge Elwyn's alleged violation of Judiciary Law 14 which states, "A judge shall not sit as such in, or take any part in the decision of, an action . . . if he is related by consanguinity or affinity to any party to the controversy within the sixth degree."

"Commissioner Fitzsimmons, by virtue of his marriage to Louise Fitzsimmons, is related to Judge Elwyn within the fourth," the Congressman concludes.

In 1941, she was hailed by Broadway critics for her performance in "Angel Street," in which she appeared with Vincent Price.

Other plays in which she starred included "Chekhov's 'The Sea Gull,'" "The Shrike," "Craig's 'We' and 'Streetcar Named Desire.'"

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Walter E. Bligh, a former secretary of the Republican State Committee and a former advertising director for the Herald-Journal and the Sunday Herald-American newspapers in Syracuse, is dead at 69.

Bligh died Sunday at Memorial Hospital after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Bligh, who also served as director of the Safety Division in the State Traffic Commission, was a field director for the GOP National Committee until 1953, when he assumed a similar post with the state organization.

Survivors include three sisters.

Solve Tillson School Breakin

A burglary at the Tillson School in March was solved Sunday by Constable Joseph Feraca, Town of Esopus, who made known today that he had recovered a tape recorder and typewriter which were stolen in the breakin.

Feraca said four juveniles between the ages of 14 and 15 committed the burglary, and after questioning them he recovered the machines which were to be returned to the school officials today.

The constable called upon parents of children to cooperate with authorities in an attempt to eliminate acts of vandalism at schools and other buildings in the area. He said the Tillson School was entered by prying a window.

"Such acts of malicious mischief could lead to more serious crimes," Feraca said, "and could result in court action and possible confinement of juveniles responsible."

Feraca said four other juveniles, picked up in connection with an investigation of a burglary at Alton's Market, Maple Street, Rifton, on March 29 were taken before Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn on Thursday. Feraca noted that the market break-in netted a quantity of beer, cakes and cigarettes he estimated at $250.

Most of the loot was recovered by Feraca on the roof of a local snack bar after a telephone tip was received.

Theft Reported

Local police were notified this morning that a small radio and $5 in cash had been taken from the Circle Cab Company office, 468 Broadway. Entrance was gained by the breaking of a rear window.

Seek Area Women For Army Duties In Select Corps

In his message to Congress taking steps to expand opportunities for women in the Selective Service, President Johnson announced that the Secretary of Defense is commenting on this action.

Sergeant Edward Keene, local Army recruiter, stated that "both the number of women in the Armed Forces and the list of jobs women do in the Army are increasing. Women are needed who are willing to learn highly specialized skills, willing to perform duties of significance and responsibility, and willing to serve their country anywhere in the world," he added.

To qualify for this select Corps, a woman must be between 18 and 35 years of age, possess a high school diploma or its equivalent, be single and without dependents under 18 years old.

Women in the WAC utilize their skills in such varied fields as communications, finance, administration, medicine, public relations, data processing, drafting, and photography.

"The training which members of the United States Women's Army Corps receive will be valuable to them whether they choose to pursue a military or civilian career," Sergeant Keene pointed out.

Members of the WAC receive the same salaries and benefits as male soldiers of the same rank and length of service; basic pay, subsistence allowance and quarters allowance if housing is not provided; free medical and dental care; 30 days paid vacation each year; and a variety of recreational activities.

In addition to these programs for high school graduates, there are several programs in existence which qualify college students and graduates for service as officers in the Women's Army Corps.

Women interested in obtaining additional information about opportunities in the WAC may contact Sergeant Keene at Room 1, Post Office building, Kingston or telephone his office.

Would Abolish Surrogate Court

Travia Backs Jurists' Plan

By GERRY McLAUGHLIN
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The bulk of a ranking jurist's major plan for court reform appeared today to have the backing of the top official of the State Constitutional Convention.

Convention President Anthony J. Travia said he favored generally most of the provisions contained in the court reorganization proposal drafted by convention delegate Bernard Botein, presiding justice of the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division.

His plan also would set up a single, statewide budget for the judicial system.

After the general lull in convention activity during the recess called in connection with the recent observance of Jewish holidays, Travia was anxious to move the convention into action.

While only a little business was on the formal agenda for today's meeting of the full convention, at least 10 committee meetings were slated for today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In New York City Sunday, Donald S. MacDonald, president of the Real Estate Board of New York Inc., criticized tax proposals before the convention that would raise present real estate tax and debt limits, increase the powers of localities to tax and grant separate taxing powers to the state's largest cities.

The tax proposals, he said, "could hurt the economy for the next 30 years."

"I want to get some bills out on the floor and get some debate started," Travia said, meanwhile.

Delegates have less than four weeks in which to file individual proposals for revising the state's basic charter.

Under convention rules, June 1 is the deadline for introduction of proposals. After that date, proposals must be introduced through the Rules Committee, headed by Travia.

During an interview at his Capitol office, Travia said he was willing to bring to a vote probably next week — a controversial resolution offered by the convention's fourth vice president, William J. vanden Heuvel.

The resolution would pledge the convention to try to produce a new, simplified state constitution, instead of revising the existing document.

While some Republicans, such as Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges, have complained that the timing of the resolution is questionable at this stage of the convention, informed GOP sources indicated the minority probably would approve it.

"It's vague enough so that we won't be bound too strictly," one Republican remarked.

In discussing Botein's plan for court reform, Travia noted that he had — as a member of the Assembly — agreed with those calling for a centralized state budget for courts. Likewise, he said, he has assented to proposals for merger of the Surrogate Court and Court of Claims into the State Supreme Court and for the consolidation of civil and criminal courts in New York City into one municipal court.

Discussing other convention issues, Travia said his mail was "running" 10-1 for repeal of the Blaine Amendment — the section of the current State Constitution which bars state financial aid to sectarian institutions.

Travia explained that many of the letters were from Roman Catholics, whose parochial schools might stand to gain more government support if the prohibition were repealed.

"But I also have heard from many people of Orthodox Jewish religion," Travia said.

The proposal to delete that provision is one of the most controversial to be placed before the convention.

State Gets New Parks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal advisory board on national parks endorses establishment of a National Park unit at Kinderhook, N.Y., and the activation of one at Rome, N.Y.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall's office said Saturday the board's recommendations include establishment of the Lindevald National Historic Site at Kinderhook, the home of President Martin Van Buren.

Ft. Stanwix National Monument at Rome would be activated, under the endorsements.

4 Are Injured In E. Kingston Two-Car Crash

Four persons were injured in a two-car collision shortly before 8 p. m. Saturday at the intersection of Railroad Lane and Mary's Lane, East Kingston.

The sheriff's office reported the vehicles were a 1964 car operated by Miss Eileen Fisher, 16, of 456 First Avenue, city, and owned by Frank Striegl, 20, of 231 Salem Street, Port Ewen, and Anthony Gallo, 26, of 161 Lincoln Street, City.

Deputy Sheriff Jack McSpirt and Donald Hughes reported the car driven by Miss Fisher was entering Railroad Lane from Mary's Lane and Gallo was driving east on Railroad Lane at the time of the impact.

A spokesman at the Fire Control Center said the East Kingston Fire Company was summoned after fire broke out in one of the cars.

Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance were Miss Fisher, who was treated for a scalp laceration and Striegl, who sustained contusions and lacerations. John Augustine, 13, of Lawrenceville Street, a passenger in Gallo's 1963 convertible, received contusions of the right leg and shoulder.

Collect $11,741...

(Continued From Page One) each package, and some of the cash will be used to purchase useful items that were not included in the gifts collected by volunteers.

The gift packages will be placed in large cartons and taken to the San Francisco area for mailing by Fred Faerber of the Smith Avenue Storage firm. Decorations that adorned the radio station building on Broadway during the radiothon were arranged by Leon Studt of Kingston.

A crash crew from Ulster Hose Co. 5 that was on duty throughout the radiothon comprised Englehardt, Nick Valenzano, Donald Crespiro, Lawrence Bigano, Roland Green, Edward Muller, Louis Every, and Bea Connolly of the REACT team. They cooperated fully with Tyrrell who directed the radio program with the station's staff.

The REACT team worked throughout the 30-hour program and many went to the Ulster Hose Co. firehouses and spent hours during the afternoon arranging the gifts for shipment. Ada Howard and Harry Gold manned telephones to accept calls during the radiothon.

The novel bubble tower set up in front of the radiothon headquarters contained approximately $1,500 in cash donations made by passersby and individuals. Groups of teenagers and children rallied to the cause and made house-to-house visits as they collected gifts and cash for the program.

Discharged Weapon

Richard L. Mosley, 26, of Hempstead, L. I., was charged by local police Saturday night with discharging a firearm in the city. His arrest by officers Floyd Krom and Ernest Bartroff followed a report at 8:58 p. m. that "someone was shooting from a bottom floor window" at 89 Broadway. It is alleged that a shotgun was discharged. City Judge Hubert A. Richter today adjourned hearing to Wednesday. Bail of $200 was not immediately posted.

Village Granted $1,000 by State For Recreation

Governor Nelson Rockefeller announced today that $1,000 in State aid has been allocated by the State Division for Youth to the village of Saugerties for a community youth recreation project.

"The Village of Saugerties is to be commended for joining more than 1,300 municipalities who take part in this phase of Division for Youth programs," the Governor said. "This marks the 21st year that the community and the State have joined together in providing wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community."

Milton Luger, Director of the Division for Youth, noted that last year the State of New York furnished $6.5 million in state aid for the establishment, operation and maintenance of municipal youth bureaus, recreation projects and youth service projects.

An application for state aid submitted by Mayor Cornelius M. Cox indicates that the Village of Saugerties will spend a total of $4,946 during the year to provide organized youth activities.

Among the activities included in this program are swimming instruction, Little League baseball, Lions Playground, Seamon Park for scouting and picnics, South Side Playground—ball field, basketball area, swings, teeter totter and dances every Saturday night in winter.

The agency responsible for the conduct of this program is the Village Board of Trustees of which Cox is chairman. The Director of Recreation is Richard J. Underhill.

Local Center Has Openings For Job Corps

Young men and women of Saugerties who are graduating from school in June, or who do not intend to continue in September, should look into the opportunities the Job Corps has to offer. The Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center can give all needed information and furnish applications to fill out.

Among other services of Community Action Programs that the local Center extends, is the enrollment for Medicaid and Food, Surplus distribution, transportation for the elderly and needy by Center volunteers, and any other immediate assistance. Plans for a Senior Citizens Club child care center, and remedial reading programs, are underway.

All volunteers are reminded that a meeting is scheduled for May 11, at 10:30 in the Community Room of the Saugerties Savings Bank on Market Street. Everyone interested in helping in the programs is invited to attend.

The Center is temporarily located on the third floor of the Main Street School. Hours are from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Fifth Grade Stars In Morse Assembly

An assembly program last week at the Grant D. Morse School was presented by the fifth grade class of Mrs. Sandra Still. The story concerned the history of education. Periods of history were represented by speakers as well as acts. Audio-visual aids were used to demonstrate one of the original texts, the New England Primer and a picture of a schoolroom of 1900.

The story started with a very modern individual, Joseph Di Giacomini, telling the merits of the moderns to a professor, Carl Bright. This scene was interrupted by the arrival of a super hero, Matt Thorne, followed by an amazingly long cape. The cape (of course) had the ability to whosh through the time barrier allowing the audience to visit periods in history.

The prehistoric era was represented by Harvey Finley, Mark Imhoff, Todd Kurploch and Harry Penous. The Roman period starred Billy Anderson, Bill Scribner and Andy Valk. The Dames School of Colonial America contained a Dame, Darlene Bullock, and two students, Charles Kaiser Glenn Valachovic. The projectionist was Bonnie Groenhof and Teresa Checkley told of Horace Mann, the father of education. Projection into the future was aided by Leonard Bach, Terry Burgher, Litress Carpenter, Debora Henley, Robert Keane, Cathy Mower and David Otis. The speaker for the class was Mark Stevens.

SAM N. MANN

Will Succeed Mones on City Water Board

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today announced appointment of Sam N. Mann, of 79 Washington Avenue, to the Board of Water Commissioners to succeed Melvin Mones, of 101 Wilson Avenue, who recently resigned.

Mones' term would have expired on May 31, and it is expected that Mann will be reappointed after that date. Mones said he resigned because he is a candidate for a county legislative office.

Mann, a former city assessor and deputy city clerk, had served as Sixth Ward alderman in the 1920's. He had served as deputy city clerk in the 1930's and as city assessor during the administration of Mayor Edwin F. Radel in the 1950's.

A past president of Temple Emanuel Synagogue, he had also served as commander of Kingston Post, 150, American Legion.

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its advance on a small scale early Monday.

Trading was fairly active. Changes of most key issues were fractional with a few ranging to a point or so.

Brokers said the market's progress may be held back by declines in both new orders and production in April for the first time in six years and the sluggishness in revival of steel demand. But they said a big increase in government deficit spending in the first quarter may be an offsetting factor.

Opening of trading in Occidental Petroleum and Kern County Land was delayed. Occidental has offered to buy 500,000 Kern shares at 8½ a share. Kern closed Friday at 63½.

Opening blocks included American Machine up ¾ at 20 on 6,500 shares; Chrysler, up ¼ at 44½ on 6,200 shares; Singer, unchanged at 62½ on 5,000 shares, and General Aniline, off ¼ at 24½ on 4,100 shares.

Friday The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced 2.3 to 330.6.

Prices advanced fractionally today on the American Stock Exchange.

Health for All

Quiz Life Saver

The Ulster County Tuberculosis Association has issued a quiz called TB Truetalk: A Quiz That Is. The following is a recent statement released by the association.

Is it a virus? Is it a germ? Where does it come from? What does it do, and to whom? What can be done to it? Quiz games have been high on the list of American folkways for many years. Some quizzes are for fun, some are for prizes to the lucky or smart. But here's one where everybody wins—it brings you, if not instant health and happiness, at least an improved chance of gaining those sought-after commodities.

Subject Is Health
As a matter of fact, the subject of this particular quiz game is health—in an area where popular knowledge has always been long on fancy and short on fact.

It's a quiz about tuberculosis—the disease whose disappearance is calmly assumed as an accomplished fact by large numbers of people, but not by the almost 50,000 who come in contact with it each year.

Do you know how TB is caught? Who is most apt to get it? How anybody can tell whether he has it? How it can be stopped? How many people in the U. S. are directly affected by it right now?

At last count, rampaging disease, 30 million Americans had TB. Most fortunately will never become actually sick with the disease. On the other hand, any of them could. TB remains a menace; its prevention, detection, treatment, and efforts to eradicate it, still cost America a billion dollars each year.

Something worth finding out about. Ask your Christmas Seal organization for the new leaflet, TB Quiz, published by the National Tuberculosis Association. It's free.

Cubans to Eat Cake

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government will let Havana mothers eat cake next Sunday. Cakes are rare in Cuba, where eggs, milk, sugar and shortening are rationed.

Havana Radio said 200,000 cakes will go on sale in greater Havana for Mothers Day. There also will be other goodies for mothers, such as 125,000 cartons of bonbons and 150,000 packages of soda crackers, said the broadcast, monitored here.

The population of greater Havana is 2,600,000.

U.S. Attempts to Lure Tourists From Expo '67

By MAX HARRELSON
MONREAL (AP) — In addition to the spectacular U.S. pavilion, the United States is represented at Expo 67 by three state pavilions which have one thing in common — they are trying to sell Montreal visitors on vacations south of the border.

Use Hard Sell
Some visitors have complained that the U.S. geodesic bubble doesn't have enough hard sell, but the exhibits of New York, Maine and Vermont have a definite message and they make no bones about it. It is this: "We have everything a vacationer wants. Come on down."

Invite Gotham MD Speaker at Diabetes Meet

Dr. Jerome L. Knittle will be the speaker when Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association holds a dinner meeting and lecture at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday, May 11. The dinner will be served promptly at 6 p. m. The lecture is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. when Dr. Knittle will speak on Diet, Obesity and Blood Cholesterol.

Dr. Knittle, an assistant professor at Rockefeller University Hospitals is a member of the Research Committee, Clinical Society of the New York Diabetes Association and holds membership in Harvey Society, American Federation of Clinical Research.

Attending as guests of the Chapter will be the president of New York Diabetes Association Dr. Gerald J. Friedman; Executive Director Alfred C. Nichols; Chairman of the Chapter Coordinating Committee Dr. Stanley S. Bergen Jr.; Director of Fund Raising and Public Relations Jack Lipitz and Director of Programs, Harry Borbe. The summer picnic originally planned for August will be held at Camp NYDA, Burlington, on June 25 when open house will be observed from 10 a. m. through 4 p. m. Since much interest in Camp NYDA was evident at the last meeting when camp director Stanley Sajacki attended and presented a film concerning camp activities and facilities it was decided Camp NYDA would provide the ideal setting for the Chapter picnic.

Clarence F. McKay, deputy commissioner of the Maine pavilion, said his state picked up a substantial tourist business from the New York World's Fair, even though it had only a small exhibit, and it is counting on catching visitors who have vacation time after they leave the Montreal fair.

For this reason, he said, the planners agreed to stress Maine's attractions as a year round vacation area.

"We decided: Let's don't get away out," he said. "Let's keep it Maine."

The state spent $400,000 on the white colonial building, located near the U.S. pavilion, and built its exhibit around a pool with revolving islands each of which displays Maine's vacation resources. One shows duck hunters and deer hunters, one shows a beach with swimmers relaxing on the sand, one shows a golfer and another a fisherman casting for trout.

One end of the building is devoted to a painting of a snow-covered mountain complete with ski lifts and skiers. The exhibit also includes the replica of an old mill which is used as a theater to show color slides on Maine's recreational facilities.

Ours Cost $500,000
The New York pavilion, next door to Maine's cost $500,000. It depends almost entirely on posters and slides to show the state's attractions as a vacation land. The entrance to the pavilion is through a green- and blue-toned "carousell" revolving around an island in the center of a small pool.

A display is located on the island illustrating urban life in New York. The main part of the pavilion is composed of six 40-foot steel towers joined together to provide a single large exhibit area. This is used mainly for showing slides on a series of screens.

White - the Vermont pavilion features a film called "The Beckoning Country," showing the state's tourist attractions, it makes a bow to Canadian visitors by giving an important spot to a display on the French explorer Samuel de Champlain. This includes a large portrait of Champlain and an inscription telling of his discovery of the lake which bears his name. Visitors may watch a sculptor creating a 12-foot statue of the explorer which will be placed at the Vermont-Canadian border in honor of Champlain's 400th birth anniversary.

Other attractions in the Vermont pavilion include a historical section and a Hall of History showing photographs of prominent Vermonters. Among these are Calvin Coolidge, Robert Frost, Horace Greeley, Sinclair Lewis and Chester A. Arthur.

The Vermont pavilion consists of soaring counter-poised triangles, symbolic of the mountains of Vermont. It cost $300,000.

Shot in Brawl

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police questioned a 22-year-old man today in connection with the pistol slaying of another man outside an east side tavern.

Detectives identified the man under questioning as Fletcher Brown of Buffalo.

The dead man, identified as James E. Gates, 19, also of Buffalo, was shot once in the chest Sunday night after he kicked the gunman in the abdomen, police said.

They quoted witnesses as saying the assailant had displayed a pistol inside the tavern. He and Gates later became involved in an argument and stepped outside, police said.

New Explorer Post at IBM Has 200 Signed

Alex Plonsky, committee chairman, and Paul Young, advisor, announced today the formation of a new Explorer Post at IBM, Kingston.

They said that approximately 200 Explorer candidates, their parents and local educators met Wednesday night at the Kingston plant, Neighborhood Road, for the purpose of establishing a "special interest" Explorer

Post in the community. George W. Tamke, IBM, Kingston plant general manager, was introduced by Perry Bunyar, institutional representative, and welcomed the group.

Alex Macdonald, scout executive, Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, described the purpose and the activities of the Explorers. He said that the new post will specialize in computer sciences while continuing in the usual tradition of Scouting.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the group toured the IBM facilities. The new Explorer Post is being sponsored by IBM Kingston.

First known photograph of a living person was made in 1839. It is a study by Daguerre.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER
I have an October 1915 Railway Conductor monthly magazine published at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

There are pictures in this book which remind me of when our city of Kingston was a train terminal. They have a signal tower which looks just like the one we had on Broadway at Railroad Avenue. One picture shows an open touring car stuck on the tracks. Another picture shows a team of horses waiting until a farm woman with a bonnet swings the gates to open for her team. No doubt once through the gates, she had to go back and close those wooden gates back in 1915.

This book has many articles one telling about the men who had short runs on the trains and would take their womenfolk along for the trip, which the local officials allowed. It was a great event for the women and girls to go along on the freights, and many preparations were made for the trips, no doubt like for our Dayline excursions. At such times, W. H. Henry wrote, the brakemen liked to run nimbly over the cars, and perform many need-less and hazardous stunts for the benefit of the ladies.

Henry wrote in 1915 that those trips over the desert were fun when a pretty girl helped cook a meal on the caboose stove. Their cabooses were not always equipped with regular cooking stoves, so they made many makeshift ones which did the trick. They would broil the meat and fry whatever else they had, and it would remain hot for quite awhile. When the girls finished making the dinner, they would hang a flag out of the cupola window to let the other men know, it was ready.

Henry writes he had always told the girls never to go to sleep in the caboose while the train was standing, as there was danger that some train would come from behind and crash into the caboose. He describes an event when one of the engineers on the 269, was one of the fastest and most reckless runners on the district. The way the engine was barking, it seemed the engineer had the train, "up in the air" and would never see the rear of caboose and sure hit it. All he could think of was that the two wives in the caboose were awake and would jump off before the wreck took place. Henry ran as fast as he could toward the rear end, gave great "wash-out" signals with his lantern, in hope that the fireman or brakeman might see the feeble light in time to prevent the smash. Heller, the other husband, who had a voice like a foghorn, yelled at the top of his lungs for the girls to get out of the caboose.

It seemed as though the train would certainly hit the caboose, when suddenly they heard the oncoming train shut off and answer a flag. Looking near the caboose, Henry saw a reflection of a fusee. Bess, Heller's wife, was out in the ditch on the left hand side of the train, and Henry's wife was coming in toward the track, still holding the part of a fusee. The two girls, dainty as they were said they had often seen their husband light those fusees, and seeing the other train coming straight on their track, so they ran out with their fire signals. They too were afraid maybe the fireman would not be looking, and the brakeman might not be on the engine, anyway they avoided a train wreck. This also proves that reckless drivers can be found even on trains, who trust too much to luck and a clear track.

Johnson Had Limited Air War In Hope For Peace

EDITOR'S NOTE—Renewed U. S. aerial forays into the Hanoi area last month after a prolonged lapse followed the collapse of another sometimes mysterious, sometimes seemingly hopeful peace probe in Vietnam. An AP reporter discloses the details for the first time in the following dispatch.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — For more than four months, from mid-December to late April, President Johnson held U. S. bombers away from the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi in an effort to find out whether President Ho Chi Minh would open secret peace talks or take steps to scale down the war. North Vietnam was informed of what Johnson was doing and was invited to respond. The story of what happened beginning last November with a Polish maneuver, now can be told as it is known in official Washington. It has been pieced together in a weeks-long check of various sources. It can be told now because the episode is closed, although officials believe some of the work done may contribute eventually to peace in Vietnam.

Word Sent

Through Polish and other diplomatic channels word was sent to Hanoi last December that if Hanoi would take some parallel step to de-escalate the fighting, the United States would be prepared to make other moves. Hanoi, campaigning to halt all bombing of North Vietnam, never accepted the offer.

The gambit thus failed and two weeks ago U. S. bombers struck again inside the previously forbidden Hanoi circle — 10 nautical miles from the center of the city.

The last previous time the bombs exploded so close to Hanoi's center, their blows fell in the midst of a peace probe initiated by Poland. Polish diplomats claimed that that bombing, Dec. 13-14, wrecked one of the most hopeful approaches to peace in the recent history of the war. U. S. officials refute the claim, but can't be sure.

Out of that failure, however, arose the four-month bomb limitation.

Events began with Januz Lewandowski, a Polish diplomat on the International Control Commission in Vietnam. Late last November Lewandowski went to Hanoi and spent 10 days talking with diplomats and North Vietnamese officials. When he returned to Saigon about Dec. 1, he met secretly with U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the Italian Embassy.

Tells Lodge

Lewandowski told Lodge he believed North Vietnam was prepared to open secret exploratory discussions with the United States. He did not interpose the condition that the United States would have to call off unconditionally the bombing of the North.

The Polish diplomat gave Lodge a 10-point statement of topics and principles for the proposed talks. The statement constituted a Polish summary of what the United States would be willing to talk about, presumably based on published declarations and previous Lewandowski talks with Lodge. Lewandowski said the North Vietnamese were also willing to talk about these points.

The 10 points covered such topics as halting hostilities, independence of South Vietnam, the principle of U. S. willingness to withdraw forces when that independence was assured and the role of elections in organizing the government in the South. There was also provision for discussing Hanoi's terms for a peaceful settlement as well as any other peace terms that might be thrown into the talks.

President Johnson and his advisers, quickly notified by Lodge, were interested in the possibility a serious opportunity for negotiations might be at hand. Polish diplomats had already told Americans they believed Hanoi was about ready to hold secret exploratory talks even though the bombing continued.

President Johnson decided that with some clarification the 10-point statement could serve as a basis for talks with North Vietnam.

In about 48 hours Rusk instructed Lodge to inform Lewandowski that the United States was ready to talk and was interested in clarification. He also told him the United States was prepared to shift the contact to Warsaw and to meet there with a representative from North Vietnam.

One point stated the United States would not insist that North Vietnam acknowledge publicly the presence of its forces in South Vietnam. The Johnson administration decided this should be clarified to require that if the troop issue was to be covered up for face-saving purposes then the North Vietnamese forces should be withdrawn from the South.

Lewandowski was informed of this and other clarification points. The others seemed mainly matters of wording. But this one was obviously substantial.

In Warsaw, President Johnson's ambassador, John A. Gronowski, received instructions making him the U. S. representative and briefing him on U. S.-Vietnamese policy.

Gronowski met with Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki and found Rapacki strenuously objected to any clarification on any of the 10 points. Rapacki warned against wrecking the whole action at the outset.

Between Polish and U. S. versions of the incident there is some difference at this point. The Polish view has been reported to be that the United States wanted to get its clarification before the secret talks opened. The Washington version is that the United States was making known its desire for clarification in the talks.

Rapacki's strong resistance to the clarification proposal caused some concern in Washington where officials were not sure the Poles had any commitment from North Vietnam to go into the talks. Some high officials here doubted that Rapacki was in fact relaying U. S. views and readiness for talks to Hanoi.

Meanwhile, so far as can be determined from responsible informants, President Johnson sometime earlier approved air strikes close in to Hanoi with rail and truck centers as targets. Generally the United States had avoided strikes at the city.

Communist Attack

Informants now say an important element in the administration decision not to suspend the bombing plan was an attack by Communist forces on Saigon's main airfield and an unsuccessful try to blow up a major bridge in Saigon.

Officials said diplomats are always moving about on one peace hope or another and that lack of a firm commitment for talks also was influential in the bombing decision.

Furthermore, Johnson administration policymakers presumably were influenced by their own basic strategy of keeping heavy military pressure on North Vietnam.

Before any North Vietnamese representative showed up for the meeting, U. S. planes carried out the Dec. 13-14 raids on the outskirts of Hanoi. Some planes, at least, flew directly over the heart of the city. Antiaircraft fire was heavy and North Vietnamese fighters rose to the defense. Some explosives fell in the city proper.

Thereupon, North Vietnam raised a protest — which stirred up angry demonstrations in many countries — that the United States had deliberately bombed the civilian population of Hanoi. U. S. denials fell on skeptical ears and did little to quiet the worldwide uproar.

It later became known in Washington that one or two planes had in fact strayed over the city when they were attacked but officials insisted heatedly that no civilian bombing was ever deliberate.

Shortly after the Dec. 13-14 incident Rapacki reportedly told the United States that North Vietnam had made clear it no longer was interested in the planned talk because of the bombing of Hanoi. Soon afterward this Polish version of the collapse of the plan was made public informally by diplomats at the United Nations.

U. S. officials publicly refuted the charge but privately said that while the attack at Hanoi might have collapsed the Polish plan it might also have presented Hanoi or Warsaw with a convenient excuse for not

tenance, State Department of Public Works; Robert W. Case, president of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of Former State Troopers, which sponsored the dedication; Frederic Snyder, lecturer, world traveler and close friend of the late Col. Chandler; George Searle, one of the original State Troopers, and Major Gustav Robson, Troop C commander of Sydney. (Freeman photo by Kruh) going through with it.

Chances Overrated

Some officials here felt the Warsaw government had overrated the chances of Hanoi's agreeing to talk.

At that point President Johnson had two obvious interests so far as further attacks on Hanoi were concerned. Assuming he still hoped the Polish plan might work he needed to get it active again if possible. He also needed to avoid fueling further worldwide indignation.

The United States sent word to Rapacki through Gronowski, according to diplomatic sources, that it would not bomb inside the circle of 10 nautical miles around the city of Hanoi and that this should get the Polish plan back on the track. According to these sources, Rapacki went back to Hanoi, but Hanoi said no.

Here again U. S. officials are skeptical that Warsaw ever had a firm commitment or Hanoi a serious intention to open secret talks.

Johnson decided to make the Hanoi no-bomb ring something more than simply an effort to revive the Polish plan. He sent word to North Vietnam through various channels that the United States was not only interested in opening peace talks but also was interested in practical steps to scale down the war.

No responsive action was asked of the North Vietnamese. But they were informed that if they wished to make any move in any area of the war to curtail military operations, the United States would be alert and responsive. U. S. officials say North Vietnam never picked up the Hanoi bomb limitation extended over the most intense period of peace probing in which the United States had engaged since the long bombing pause during the Christmas-New Year season of 1965-66.

The Right Thing To Do

By Elizabeth L. Post

OUT OF TOWN VISITOR MUST ALERT FRIENDS

Dear Mrs. Post: My late husband and I grew up in the east and moved to California about 12 years ago. This is my second visit "home" since his death two years ago. I enclosed notes to friends in my Christmas cards telling of my plan to come east and the date of my arrival. Do I wait for friends to call me or do I contact them?—Eloise J.

Dear Eloise: It is really up to your friends to welcome you, but, practically, you had better call any you especially wish to see, because they may well have mislaid your card and forgotten the date and details of your visit.

Groom Should Learn to Dance Before Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary for the bride and groom to have the first dance together at the wedding reception? I know it is customary, but my future husband doesn't know how to dance and I would not want to embarrass him. Do you have a solution to my problem?—Marjory.

Dear Marjory: There are two solutions to your problem. First don't have dance music at your wedding reception or the floor cleared for dancing. Second, spend a few minutes every week teaching your fiancé a few simple steps. It doesn't take much time to learn enough so that he'll make a presentable showing.

Gifts for a Second Marriage
Dear Mrs. Post: My father is getting married for a second time to a woman who has also been married before. They are both over 50, each has children. Each of them own homes. When they get married, are they to receive gifts? They are planning on having a large reception.—Phyllis.

Dear Phyllis: It is not necessary to send gifts to a couple, both of whom have been married before. A few close friends or relatives may wish to do so, and I hope they will choose something other than ordinary house furnishings. In this case a check might be in order, as the bride and groom could use it for their honeymoon or for some special occasion.

Well Child

BY Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SOME NEW LEUKEMIA DRUGS ARE SHOWING GOOD PROMISE

A grandmother writes that her 4½-year-old grandson has leukemia. The diagnosis was made only after several examinations of his bone marrow for abnormal cells. The grandmother wants to know what chance the child has for life. This depends on what type of leukemia he has.

Many new treatments for this disease are being used. Some of them show great promise but because they are still experimental it may be necessary to take the boy to a research center where such treatments are being studied. For more detailed information on where to take him she can write to the Leukemia Society, 405 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017.

Q—My 18-month-old daughter shakes her crib and bangs her head against its sides. Could she harm herself this way? What causes this?

A—This is a common type of behavior in children between the ages of one and three. Although it may drive the mother nearly crazy there are no reports of concussion or brain damage resulting from this pastime.

The cause may be a need for rhythmic activity. After all, an 18-month-old baby can't dance. Another possible cause is a need to get some of the pent-up feeling out of her system. In any case no treatment is necessary and she will outgrow the habit in a few more months.

Q—My granddaughter's son was born with one eye and sometimes both eyes turning in. Can anything other than an operation be done for this? What age is best for operating on his eyes?

A—Since it takes a baby about six months to master binocular vision the best treatment in these early months is watchful waiting. An eye doctor can tell at 6 months whether the child is cross-eyed and if he is, which eye is dominant. Blocking the vision in the dominant eye for a week or two at a time should strengthen the weak eye. This treatment should be kept up for five or six months but, if at the end of that time the baby is still cross-eyed, an operation may be necessary. It is important to have this done early on life to prevent the weak eye from becoming useless.

ENTERTAIN AT HOME—Frances Gould, violinist, entertained at the Home for the Aged on May 4. Visibly enjoying the music are (l-r) Miss Jennie Terpening, age 96; Mrs. Rada Smith, 74; and Miss Eunice Wilson, 93. The Gould Ensemble played a wide selection of music. Other musicians are Jacqueline Baczynsky, French horn; Markian Baczynsky, violin; Joseph LaRusso, bass violin; and Theodore Riccobono, piano. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

WEST HURLEY SPRING CONCERT—The spring music concerts at the West Hurley Elementary School will be held on May 23. The chorus, bands and string groups will perform. Some of the sixth grade participants will include (l-r) Elaine Knickmeyer, Suzanne Palmer, Bonnie Braun, Marian Wagner, Michael Shultis, and seated, Beth Zimet.

Tigers Complete Sweep of Orioles

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Bauer's getting tired of being cuffed around by the Detroit Tigers, but his sluggers keep turning the other cheek.

The Tigers capitalized on Baltimore blunders Sunday and blanked Bauer's Orioles 4-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Joe Sparna, completing a three-game sweep over the sluggish world champions.

The victory was Detroit's sixth in seven games against the Orioles, who have fallen into an eighth-place tie in the early American League race after scoring only one run in the three-game set against the Tigers.

Boston's Rico Petrocelli lashed a two-run single in the seventh, breaking a 5-5 tie, and two more runs scored on Ron Clark's throwing error, enabling the Red Sox to end a four-game slide as well as Minnesota's four-game winning string.

Jim Nash struck out 10 Yankees in the Athletics' first game victory, but needed relief help from Jack Aker in the seventh.

An error by John Kennedy helped the A's to two unearned runs in the fourth.

New York bounced back with a 14-hit attack in the nightcap. Joe Pepitone leading the way with three singles and a double. Pepitone, Horace Clarke and Dick Houser each drove in two runs and Al Downing picked up his third victory with late-inning help from Dooley Womack.

"We're pressing too much... swinging at pitches we should be taking and taking pitches we should be swinging at," Manager Bauer said after watching his club stumble to its fourth straight setback.

"Beating the Orioles six out of seven is bound to give us a lift," said Tiger pilot Mayo Smith. "Our guys still think Baltimore is the club to beat."

Sparna scattered three singles on the way to his second shutout of the young season and third victory without a loss.

The Tigers pulled out of reach by scoring three unearned runs in the fifth inning without hitting a ball out of the infield. Pitcher Dave McNally's two-base throwing error opened the gates and five walks, a wild pitch and a bunt single by Don Wertz completed the wild rally.

The Tigers' fourth victory in a row moved them into the league lead, one half game ahead of the Chicago White Sox, whose game at Cleveland was rained out.

Elsewhere, California shut out Washington 5-0 on Jim McGlothlin's two-hitter; Boston checked Minnesota 9-6, and Kansas City divided a doubleheader with New York, trimming the Yankees 4-1 before bowing 8-3.

Al Kaline's run-scoring single in the third inning gave Detroit a 1-0 lead against McNally before the Baltimore left-hander lost his control — and his temper — during the three-run fifth.

After walking leadoff hitter Ray Oyler, McNally picked up Sparna's bunt and heaved the ball into center field. Wertz followed with a bunt past the shakel pitched, filling the bases. McNally went to a 3-0 count on Dick McAuliffe, then was thrown out of the game for protesting a call.

Moe Drabowsky completed the walk to McAuliffe, forcing in one run, then got Kaline to bounce into a third-home first double play before wild pitching another run across and refilling the bases with two more walks. Rookie Bill Dillman came on and walked the third run home.

Beard Again Shaves Palmer by Stroke

By RONALD THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Frank Beard, the Louisville, Ky., slugger of the fairways, can only say that what he has done on the pro golf tour this year is beyond "my wildest expectations." Twice, he has won tournaments by beating Arnold Palmer with birdies on the last hole.

Beard, 28 just a week ago, dropped an 18-footer for a bird Sunday to best Palmer, golf's all-time money winner, by one stroke to win the $115,000 Champions International Golf Classic.

Three weeks ago, he did the same thing—sink a last-ditch birdie—to beat Palmer in the prestigious Tournament of Champions. He picked up $23,000 here and $20,000 in Las Vegas.

Winning second, Palmer banked $13,800 for a total of $87,073 on the 1967 tour. Master champ Gay Brewer, No. 2 on the list, finished out of the money, at 296. Doug Sanders, third, withdrew the last day because of a cold.

Beard has won a total of $54,987 in 1967. Last year, he won $66,041.

He began the day three strokes behind Palmer, who had held the lead for the two previous days. U. S. Open champion Billy Casper was second, two strokes off Palmer's pace, but shot himself out of contention by hitting water on No. 12 and 14, for double bogies.

Ground Illini For Two Years

CHICAGO (AP)—The University of Illinois, still groggy from Big Ten penalties for a $21,000 athletic slush fund, was slapped Sunday with two years' probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

During the probation period, Illinois' football and basketball teams are prohibited from engaging in post-season competition and the football team cannot make commitments for television appearances.

However, two scheduled football shows this fall will not be affected since the commitments were made prior to Sunday's crackdown by the NCAA.

The NCAA action climaxed a six-month ordeal during which Illinois coaches Pete Elliott, football; Harry Combes, basketball; and Howard Braun, basketball assistant, were forced to resign and 14 athletes were declared ineligible, five of them permanently.

The NCAA's move will prevent Illinois from participating in the basketball playoffs and Rose Bowl games until the school returns to good standing, which would be no sooner than May 7, 1969.

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said the penalty could have been stiffer had it not been for cooperation received from the school, which exposed the fund, and the action taken by the Big Ten, which forced the resignation of the three coaches.

Byers said the NCAA's policy-making council could not have asked the Big Ten to do more than it did and that the conference followed policies made in the recent meetings in Houston to penalize the head coaches involved rather than having an assistant shoulder the blame when violations occur.

Italian Driver Fights for Life After Smashup

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Lorenzo Bandini, star Italian auto race driver, fought for his life today after his Ferrari overturned in the Grand Prix of Monaco Sunday, caught fire and engulfed him in a pillar of fiery flames.

Doctors at the hospital, where he was taken after being pulled from the wreckage, gave Bandini little chance of surviving.

The doctor said he had been burned over 65 per cent of his body and that he had several lesions on his lungs from inhaling the flames. They removed his spleen and performed a tracheotomy to help his breathing. In addition he received 20 pints of blood transfusions.

The accident happened on the 82nd lap when Bandini's Ferrari, in second place at the time, hit the straw bales bordering the route at a zig-zag.

Dennis Hulme of New Zealand won the 165-mile race for formula one cars in a Repco-Brabham at an average speed of 76 miles per hour. Graham Hill of Britain was second in a Lotus and Chris Amon of Australia third in a Ferrari.

Wallkill Kennel Show Slated Sunday

Texas Bowlers Grab Top ABC Prize of $5,000

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Shortly after the final ball was thrown Sunday, workers began to dismantle the 34 lanes which have been the stage for the last 65 days of the 64th American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Prize checks totaling $360,419 will be mailed shortly to the best scorers among the 18,000 contestants who competed in Convention Hall.

Balancer Grove of Fort Worth, Tex., grabbed off the biggest check, $5,000, for its victory in the classic team division. An odd lot collection of touring professionals, the Balancers totaled 6,298 for six games.

Pinky's Bowl of Milwaukee earned $2,500 for the record-breaking series of 3,327 which won the regular team division and the Klutzies of Miami won the $250 top prize in the lowly booster division with a 2,850 score.

Bob Strampe of Detroit was enriched by $1,000 for his winning 2,092 total in classic all-events. Harry Smith of Redwood City, Calif., and Norm Myers of Los Angeles collected $1,000 for their 1,422 total which won classic doubles. Lou Mandragona of Miami got a $500 check for his 736 title which won the classic singles.

Gary Lewis of Chicago took the $1,000 regular all-events crown with a 2,010 total and the $500 regular singles title went to Frank Perry of Lorain, Ohio, for a 723 series. The $1,000 regular doubles championship went to Mark Kuchitsch and Ron Wheeler of Milwaukee, who totaled 1,357.

All Events Lead 1804 in WIBC

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Helen E. Weston of Detroit shot an 1804 series Sunday to claim the unofficial Division I all-events lead at the women's International Bowling Congress Tournament.

Miss Weston, a 184-average bowler, tallied a 612 in the team event, a 593 in doubles and a 599 in singles. Jean Stehle of Sturgis, Mich., has the official lead with a 1776 total.

Two Detroit teams, Ed Matatall Builders and Stan Long Pontiac, moved into second and third place, respectively, in Division I behind another Motor City squad, Schafer's Bakeries, which has 2785.

Matatall, paced by Lorene Curtis' 266-630 performance, rolled 2801. Stan Long, of which Miss Weston is a member, had 2782.

In Division I doubles, Mrs. Beverly Hendershot and Mrs. Elizabeth George of Dover, N.J., rolled into a tie for second place with Jean Carbone and Lillian Miller of Kenosha, Wis., by registering an 1167 total.

One pin behind them in third place were Stella Beenders and Murine Beenders, sisters-in-law from North Plainfield, N.J., who also bowled Sunday.

Dorothy Arns of Liverpool, N.Y., and Margaret Wilkinson of Phoenix, N.Y., lead the category with 1171.

Crew Racing Opens Saturday

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first big college rowing event of the season, the Eastern Sprint Championships, is scheduled Saturday for Lake Quinismond in Worcester, Mass., and Harvard is the overwhelming favorite.

The formidable crimson heavyweight crew made it 24 in a row against collegiate competition by winning the Adams Cup by three lengths over Pennsylvania and nine lengths over Navy on the Charles River last Saturday.

Penn., previously unbeaten this year, had been expected to pose a stern challenge to Harvard, but the crimson rowers opened a quick lead with a stroke of 38 and had little trouble. Their time for the 1½ miles was 8:50.3 to Penn's 9:01.8 and Navy's 9:24.6.

"We're starting to look like a pretty good crew," said Harvard Coach Harry Parker. The Crimson opponents probably consider that an understatement.

Kickers Rained Out

Ailing Carol Mann Cops Tall City Golf

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Tall Carol Mann left a hospital where she had been taken for treatment of a pinched disc in the back and won the $12,500 Tall City Open Golf Tournament because she had made a pledge to herself.

In one of the greatest showings of courage and determination the women's golf tour has known, the big blonde from Olympia, Wash., played the final round of the tournament Sunday with two crutches. One carried her crutches (she couldn't sit down while resting between fairway shots) and the other her golf bag.

She also was under medication and remembers little of the final round of one-under-par 71 that won a duel with the great Mickey Wright and the tournament with 214 for 54 holes. She beat Miss Wright, golf's all-time leading money-winner, by two strokes.

Miss Mann has been having trouble with her back since she was 17, but it didn't grow serious until 1965 when she was practicing at the National Open in San Diego. She bent over to pick up a ball and had a seizure. "People are supposed to have five vertebrae under this lower disc," she said. "Well, I only have four and the strain is too much at times."

Kept on Playing
The back continued to bother her, but she kept on playing. In the last tournament of the year in 1966 at Pensacola, Fla.—it got so bad she started taking treatments.

She consulted a physician who gave her some capsules to take—three a day—and that kept her going although she was in pain much of the time. But she knew she eventually was going to have to have an operation.

"I was home in April for two weeks and decided I would try to play the rest of the year and then have the operation," she said.

"I also pledged to myself that I would play as well as I could and make improvement each week until I got to winning. Well, I was fourth at Raleigh, tied for third at Shreveport and here I am first."

Sunday, she was awakened by a loud knocking, which she thought was on her door (it really was down the hall) and she sat up quickly.

"I have a certain way I am supposed to move and I came up wrong," she said.

She had to call for help, was rushed to the hospital but just wouldn't stay—she left at 12:35 p.m. and arrived at the Midland Country Club course in time for a 1:30 p.m. teeoff.

Baseball Fact Haunts Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toronto's Maple Leafs have become the first International League team this year to rediscover an old baseball fact of life—that the fellow you let go quite often will come back to haunt you.

Over the winter, the Leafs lost to two pitchers who had been key figures in the drive that brought Toronto to a tie for second place in the 1966 IL race—right-hander Ed Rakow and lefty Julio Navarro.

A trade between the Detroit and Atlanta farm systems sent Rakow and Navarro to Atlanta, which promptly dispatched them to its International League farm club, Richmond.

So—you guessed it. Saturday in Toronto, the Leafs were confronted by Navarro, who set them down on three hits in a 3-0 Richmond victory.

They were to have had a look at Rakow, who has a 2-0 record, in a Sunday twin bill, but like all other Sunday games in the league—all doubleheaders—the proceedings were washed out by rain.

Tie for Cellar
Saturday's loss kept Toronto in a tie with Toledo for the IL cellar and it's obvious the Maple Leafs, perennial flag contenders, will have to hit with more authority if they want to rise in the world. In eight games, their team average is a meager .188. They've hit only two home runs and have been shut out three times.

Buffalo kept the league lead Saturday by defeating Jacksonville 6-4. Cal Emery's two-run homer and a solo shot by Duke Carmel were the big blows for the Bisons.

Syracuse stayed on the Bisons' heels by clipping Toledo 5-1 behind lefty Bill Henry's five-hit pitching. A two-run homer by Chet Trail put the Chiefs ahead to stay in the third inning.

Rochester pummeled Columbus 10-4 with a 10-hit attack that featured a pair of two-run singles by Curt Motton. The Red Wings also benefited from 10 walks, three hit batsmen and a Jet error.

All teams are idle tonight.

Buffalo Bills Sign Four Veteran Players
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Four more veteran players have signed their 1967 contracts with the Buffalo Bills, the American Football League team says.

They are tight end Paul Costa, defensive back Charley Warner, Split end Bobby Crockett and Ed Rutkowski, who plays both offense and defense.

The announcement was made Saturday.

Late Bulletin

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted Cassius Clay today on a charge of refusing to be drafted into the armed services.

Conviction on the charge could send Clay to jail for as long as five years.

Clay was stripped of his world heavyweight boxing championship April 28 when he refused to take the traditional step forward at the Houston Armed Forces Induction Center.

The center is just six blocks from the federal courts building, where the grand jury met today and returned the indictment in the court of U.S. District Judge Ben. C. Connally.

Grand jury action had been rumored over the weekend, although it was said April 28 that it might take 30 to 60 days for the government to start formal proceedings against Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali.

There was indication that the quick action resulted from Clay's public statements before April 28 which left no doubt that he would not step forward.

Lawrence Film Has Big Budget

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Unanswerable Robert Wise has a ready answer when asked about the cost of his new film, "The Extravaganza," he says. "I'm not going to release any figures because they embarrass me. All I can say is that Gertrude Lawrence believed in extravagance, and that's the way we have to film her life story." Wise did admit that the cost is

So we cut some of them at the beginning. When we finish shooting, we'll have to do the things they did in the old days: shoot down until we can rehearse the last two numbers. They're very important ones—'I'm a House Blues' and 'Jenny.'"

And since the new Wise production "Star!" also boasts the talent of Julie Andrews, the Fox nonmovement would be delighted to give the producer-director a completely blank check. Fortunately, his training in the believe it at RKO does not allow any unnecessary expense.

The life of Gertrude Lawrence, brilliant star of the London and New York theater, has been muddled over screen biography. But the studio stalled for lack of a former of the same luminescence to portray her. Julie Andrews obviously filled the was a visual and aural delight. Like "Brigadoon," made earlier by the same producer, this adaptation of a beloved stage play, was done in rich, colorful sets. It opened with scenes at a carousel with Billy Bigelow, the swaggering barker, and his sweet, golden-haired Julie Jordan — and the parade of great songs started.

It moved on to more elaborate settings and a thickening plot — the clambake with a fine song that was really a recipe, and then to the village tavern and eventually a dock scene where violent, restless Billy put a knife in his belly — but not before his big number, the famous soliloquy that follows word his wife will have a child.

Robert Goulet's good looks and fine baritone were accompanied by an arrogance and temper that made him totally unacceptable as Billy. A newcomer to television, Marv Grover, did nicely as the girl.

Accuse Actor Of Killing Wife

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Theodore Hekt, 61, a motion picture actor during the 1940s, was jailed on suspicion of murder after the death of his wife Jean, 45, in a hospital Sunday.
Police said friends of the couple found Mrs. Hekt suffering from multiple bruises and possible contusions. A few hours later, she died.
The couple had been married 21 years. Mrs. Hekt had been a dancer. Hekt was a cousin of Ben Hecht, the late author.
He has appeared in such movies as "Anna and the King of Siam," "Lost Weekend" and "Corregidor."

Trouble With Time
GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Some folks say the large revolving clock atop the Citizens and Southern National Bank has gone on daylight losing time.
Others say it's just keeping bankers hours.
When clocks were advanced an hour for Daylight Saving Time, the C&S clock dropped back an hour from Eastern Standard Time, making it two hours slow.
"I can't explain it," said Ben D. Harvey, cashier.
"We had the thing set right the other day. I think it's just a coincidence that it dropped back exactly two hours."

Red Cross Plans First Aid for Farm Mishaps

Mounting concern over the prevalence of accidents in agricultural environments has prompted the Red Cross in Ulster County to push strenuously its program of first aid training in the rural areas of the county.
Daniel H. Morehouse, chairman of Red Cross first aid here, pointed to these national statistics as reasons for corrective action:
"Farm accidents in one year resulted in 8,200 deaths and 740,000 disabling injuries. Of these totals farm home accidents accounted for 1,800 deaths and 270,000 disabling injuries."
The distance of most farms from medical facilities "makes it imperative that farm families be able to give emergency assistance to the injured," Morehouse continued.
"The time lag between injury and professional treatment may prove fatal. Seconds count when profuse bleeding occurs, breathing stops, or poison begins its deadly effect. Fast, effective emergency action, such as can be given only by persons trained in first aid, is essential."
"In a rural setting, family members, friends, and co-workers need this training so they can give emergency care immediately."

Ulster County Red Cross Chapter hopes to provide a program of advanced first aid instruction for non-medical persons most often called in rural emergencies, such as police, sheriffs and their deputies, volunteer firemen, and ambulance or rescue squad crews.
It hopes to continue its program of basic first aid instruction for rural families particularly young people through youth organizations such as 4-H Clubs and Boy and Girl Scouts, as well as other educational channels.
Currently the Ulster County Chapter has approximately 60 certified Red Cross first aid instructors who are able to organize classes for any groups desiring them. Those interested are urged to contact the Chapter at 308 Clinton Avenue, Kingston.

Pollution-Free Air for Ulster, Session Theme
"Can Ulster County Have Clean Air?" A specific, action-oriented presentation by Kenneth Kowald, a prominent, state-level air pollution expert, is the driving theme of the air pollution-clean air annual dinner of the Ulster County TB and Respiratory Disease Association at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, Wednesday evening, May 17 at 7 p.m. "One of the most applicable and vital concerns to involve Ulster County, the problem of air pollution is a growing one involving every county citizen," stated Saugerties banker John M. Robbins, association president. "Every interested citizen is urged to join us at this important air pollution community event."

In announcing the guest speaker, Robbins noted that Kowald is one of the leading workers in statewide efforts toward the abatement and control of air pollution. Kowald is consultant on Air Pollution Control to the New York State TB-Respiratory Disease Association, the local TB-RD group's state affiliate. He is executive director of the New York State Action for Clean Air Committee, which works with state health agencies and industry, and is directly affiliated with the State Air Pollution Control Board.
A native of New York City, he is a graduate of The City College of New York (now City University of New York); Columbia University; Fordham University School of Law; and has been admitted to practice before State and Federal Bars. Following a newspaper career which included work with the New York Times, Kowald was coordinator of public affairs, Consolidated Edison Company for three years and assistant executive director, Queens Division, American Cancer Society. Based on previous experience and deep interest, he then entered the air pollution field. Prior to his present state air pollution-clean air work, Kowald served six years as secretary to the New York City Department of Air Pollution Control.
